Revenue Management Framework for Technology expands monetization, customer experience options

Today's technology companies are often looking to provide more streamlined buying and selling experiences, but don't have the tools or expertise to accelerate their program's maturity.

Siloed data, inefficient processes, lack of automation, and misaligned customer journeys are but a handful of potential roadblocks to unlocking the next era of growth.

Cognizant's Revenue Management Framework for Technology pairs purpose-built intellectual property, accelerators and integrations with world-class consulting to expedite your company's business outcomes. Built on the backbone of Salesforce Revenue Cloud with industry-specific capabilities, our delivery framework is a unified consulting and transformation approach to optimizing customer engagement and revenue management for the modern technology business.
